As O'Hagin's new National Director of Technical Training and Compliance, Fulton will lead the company's outreach efforts to roofing contractors, builders and distributors on all technical and installation matters. He will work closely with O'Hagin's sales team to ensure its customers in the construction industry have the technical support they need to provide superior attic ventilation solutions. Additionally, as a key member of the senior management team, Fulton will oversee the Company's vast product testing efforts.

Mr. Fulton will be based in O'Hagin's Lakeland, Florida facility and serve the entire United States.

"Mike is a recognized leader in the attic ventilation industry," said David Mutter, President and Chief Executive Officer of O'Hagin's, Inc. "He immediately provides our team with a deep reservoir of technical and compliance experience that will benefit O'Hagin's, Inc. as we continue to expand."

O'Hagin's, Inc.

O'Hagin's, Inc. started as a roofing company over 30 years ago. Founded by Carolina and Harry O'Hagin, the company grew from a small shop into an international construction materials manufacturer. Committed to testing, O'Hagin's was one of the first companies to seek and secure testing approvals for attic ventilation products.

Today, O'Hagin's, Inc. is the leading attic ventilation manufacturer in the United States and sells millions of attic vents, holds over a dozen patents and is a proud supplier to thousands of architects, builders, contractors and distributors. Throughout O'Hagin's history, its mission has remained the same – to provide customers with quality products, customized service and responsive support.
